FEDORA KDE

Fedora KDE SIG

Packages and maintains the Qt stack and KDE software ecosystem for Fedora (and RHEL, starting with RHEL 8)

KDE Plasma Edition

The main deliverable of the KDE SIG, which offers a curated experience to showcase KDE technologies on the Fedora Linux platform.

SO WHAT'S NEW IN FEDORA LINUX 34?

WAYLAND BY DEFAULT

Leaping into the future!

KDE Plasma now runs with Plasma Wayland by default, rather than the legacy X11 session. This gives us a smoother graphics pipeline with greater performance. Fedora is the first distribution to make the switch for KDE Plasma.

BREEZE TWILIGHT

Blending dark and light!

Plasma 5.21 introduces the Breeze Twilight theme which blends dark panel elements with light application styles. This de-emphasizes the desktop elements in favor of a stronger focus on the applications you use.

AARCH64 IMAGES

ARMing up

Fedora KDE Plasma packages have always been available for Arm and we've had 32-bit Arm images for a while, but now we offer live media (for UEFI-based Arm devices) and disk images (for non-UEFI systems) for AArch64..

SO WHAT'S COMING IN THE FUTURE?

WHAT'S COMING SOON

On the bucket list...

- Fedora Kinoite (Fedora 35)
- Plasma 5.22 (Fedora 34+)
- NeoChat preloaded (pending Fedora Matrix server)
- Much more UX improvement collaboration with KDE
